Volume XXXV

This Pirate Yearbook is a history book. One might say, "Oh my, I don't want to read a history book." But yet, just naming the book does not relate the contents of it. Even naming the book a yearbook does not really tell the story. But wait — What if we name it PIRATE YEARBOOK 1983? Now we know what is in it. Or do we? Yes, we know pictures of our children, staff, and school will be there. However, it is very hard to include the hopes, aspirations, and feelings of all the people involved in our school. As each of you turn the pages of this book, try to see the pride that went into the development of this book. More importantly though, think of the pride and the work that went into each of the classes and activities exhibited in the annual. Try to remember the happiness, the joy, and the sorrow that is so much a part of living with children. Only by doing this can we really have a true accounting of the great "1982-83 Pirate school year."

The Senior Class of 1983

Tommy, Todd, Kent, Jim, Gary, Joe, Julie, Lisa, Tesa, and Kelly — the class with class — or at least we think so. We've always been a close class with few disagreements. Maybe that's why we are such good friends. It seems that we always stay together — no matter what comes between us. Oh, we have our problems — everyone does — but we always work it out. We're not just classmates, but we're each other's best friends.

It seems though that we'll soon be parting ways, but we'll always have those special memories that no one can ever take away — like decorating for the Jr.-Sr. Prom, preparing for our banquet, the fun we had performing our Jr. Play, our class parties, and our trip to Oklahoma City.

The list of memories is endless and each of us has our own that we consider most special. Memories never die. They only get better.

So as we prepare to go our separate ways, we can look back on the years we've spent together in a special way. No matter where we go or what we do — even if we're not together — we'll all be in each other's hearts in the form of precious memories of special times.
